On May 5, 2020, our community will come together for North Texas Giving Tuesday Now, an emergency giving day to support the nonprofits in our region. As you know, our work has been challenged by the current climate and the impact of COVID-19 on our community, region and world.

If you can, we're asking for your support on this emergency giving day, to help us continue our work, serving those who rely on our services and providing resources for our staff and volunteers to continue forging ahead.
